PROPOSED ALTERATION OF
THE REGULATIONS FOR PREVENTING COLLISIONS
AT SEA.

The Board of Trade have forwarded a longly communication to the Imperial

Merchant Service Guild asking the opinion of that body upon points raised in connection with the proposed alteration of the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at sea. These alterations include:-

TOWING SIGNALS.

A signal for vessels towing gun targets,

lumber rafts, or similar objects, such signal

to be distinct from that carried by steam vessels towing other vessels. The signal suggested consists of three lights visible all round the horizon, and placed not less than three feet apart at the stern of the towing vessel, the lower light being white and the two upper lights being red.

UNIVERSAL DISTRESS SIGNAL.

It is proposed to include in Article 31 a day signal of distress such as a cone having either above it or below it a ball, or any thing resembling a ball. This signal to be made known universally.

DAY SIGNAL FOR MOTOR BOATS.

It is proposed that some distinct signal

shall be shown by day, so that other vessels

may recognise them as steamships within the meaning of the regulations. At present there is considerable risk of collision in such cases, the motor vessel manoeuvring

as a steamship, and it is often impossible to see whether motor power is being used as well as sail. It is proposed that by night the motor vessel, if using her motor

as well as her sails, will show the lights

prescribed for steamships.

SIGNAL FOR SHIP CARRYING EXPLOSIVES.

As a special signal for vessels carrying explosives, it is proposed that a red flag by day and a red light by night shall be hoisted, such signal, however, not being intended to give any right of way.

The Guild are giving their careful consideration to the foregoing propositions and will shortly forward their observations upon them to the Board of Trade.

The German Emperor has ordered the sum of £200 to be sent as a gift to M.

Louis Laveaux, an ex-soldier of the French

Colonial Army, who, on August 3, 1909,

rescued in Peking, at the peril of his life,

several German soldiers who were threatened with death, owing to the fact which had suddenly broken out in one of the bar-

rooms.

DANGER FROM CROUP.

A few minutes delay in treating some cases of croup, even the length of time it takes to go for a doctor, often proves dangerous. The safest way is to keep

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and at the first indication of croup give the child a dose. Pleasant to take and always effective. For sale by all Chemists and Druggists.

THE LIGHT SIDE OF PARLIAMENT.

A vast literature has gathered around the inner life of the House of Parliament.
Some of it is deep, ponderous, erudite,
concerned with ancient precedents, high themes, great principles, and the gravity of history. Some of it is intensely human, treating Parliament as an arena of personal rivalries, where there is the perpetual clash of conflicting ambitions and the exciting sword-play of the gladiators of debate. Some of it is occupied with lighter topics—the fashions, manners, foibles, and eccentricities of the Members of this august Assembly. Mr. Harry Graham's book, "The Mother of Parliament," cannot easily be classified. It belonges to the lighter rather than to the heavier category, but to its lightness there is a serious side, and its flippancy plays on the surface of a genuine reverence for the great Assembly of which the British people are justly proud.

Widely as Mr. Graham has read in the literature of Parliament, he wears his knowledge as lightly as a rose in his buttonhole, and, like a rose, it exhales a pleasant fragrance. He has given us a gay and sprightly book, which contains much curious knowledge, and a fine collection of Parliamentary anecdotes. It is not a learned or pretentious work, and the style is very free and easy, as though a man had written it in his shirt sleeves, but it has a sort of negligent grace, and to read it is a sheer delight.

GLASS AND GAY.

Mr. Graham gazes pleasantly on all sorts of topics connected with the Houses of Parliament. He pictures to us the poet Chaucer acting as clerk of the works when Westminster Hall was rebuilt in the reign of Richard II.; he reminds us that the Lord Chancellor can be a Commoner; he shows us King Charles II. lounging down to the House of Lords to "while away time that hung so heavily on the merry monarch's hands"; he tells us that George IV., when Prince Regent, bet Sheridan a hundred guineas
that he would introduce the words "Ea-ha, ha, black sheep" into King's Speech without arousing comment or surprise; and what is more, won his bet; he shows us Westminster Hall in the seventeenth century a busy centre of trade where booksellers, stationers, and fruiterers carried on business; he tells us that the old House of Commons, burnt down in 1834, was infested with rats; and he has sympathetic words for Sir Charles Barry, the gifted architect of the present noble Parliament buildings, who in the execution of his great work was hounded by perpetual squabbles with the officials. Even the contract for the manufacture of the clock gave rise to an acrimonious controversy. It may be noted that Barry's original design included the erecting of a huge gate-tower at the angles.
He also proposed to make Victoria Tower the chief feature of a big quadrangle, whence a splendid processional approach should extend to Buckingham Palace. The cost prevented the carrying out of this bold scheme.

LORDS AND COMMONS.

Off and on for centuries the relations between the two Houses of Parliament have been strained. The House of Commons has always been sensitive to its dignity, and has jealously maintained its superiority over the Lords as the special organ and instrument of the people. Sometimes the Lords were guilty of discourtesy,
and on these occasions the Commons
blazed with resentment. "In 1772 Burke was kept waiting for three hours with a Bill which he was carrying from the Lords.
When he subsequently reported his ill-
treatment to the Lower House their indignation knew no bounds, and they proceeded to revenge themselves in a somewhat puerile manner. The very next Bill that the House of Lords sent down to them was rejected unanimously, and the Speaker
threw the offensive measure on to the floor of the House, whence it was kicked to the door by a number of indignant Members."

No one can now be elected to the House of Commons who is not 21 years of age,
but up to the nineteenth century minors
sat in the House without let or hindrance.
"The poet Waller sat in the Commons before he was 17, while Lord

Torrington, afterwards Duke of Albemarle, took part in debate when he was only 14, and at that age addressed the House in 1697 on the subject of Clarendon's impeachment. The infant Members of that day were singularly precocious and well able to look after themselves. When,
for instance, someone urged that Lord Falkland was too young to sit in Parliament, as he had not yet sown his wild oats, that young problemist rudely replied that he could imagine no more suitable place for sowing them than the House of Commons, where there were so many guineas to pick them up. By the Act of 1895 infants were formally excluded from Parliament, but for a long time they continued to sit in the House, though they most probably abstained from voting. Extreme youth was not considered a bar to Parliamentary success in days when it was possible for a politician to become Prime Minister, as Pitt did, at the age of 24. Both Fox and Philip Stanhope (afterwards Lord Ochesterfield) delivered their maiden speech
as a month or so before they came of age, and Lord John Russell was returned to Parliament when he was still a minor."

TEARS AND CHAMPAGNE.

In old days the House of Commons was a very emotional Assembly. Members often broke down and wept. In 1699
when, by the King's command, no discussion was permitted on the question of Buckingham's impeachment, a lachrymose
Speaker led the whole House of Commons in a chorus of weeping. Two years later that great lawyer, Sir Edward Coke, welcomed the introduction of the Petition of Right in a voice choked with soba. Coke was one of those lawyers who, as Mr.
Asquith proudly recalled last year, saved
the liberties of England.

Drunkenness was common among M.P.'s in the eighteenth century, and intemperance of language continued well into the Victorian era. Charles Townshend, whom Burke called "the delight and ornament of the House," and who was offered the Chancellorship of the Exchequer by Pitt, seems to have been far more eloquent in his cups than at any other time. He is chiefly famous for making what is known as the "Champagne speech" of May 12th, 1797—a speech which, as Walpole declared to a friend, nobody but Townshend could have made, and nobody but he would have made if he could. It was at once a proof that his abilities were superior to those of all men and his judgement below that of any man. "He beat Chatham in language, Burke in metaphor, Grenville in presumption, Rigby in impudence, himself in folly and everybody in good humor." Half a bottle of champagne, as Walpole said, poured on genuine genius kindled this wonderful blaze.—Daily Chronicle.

The Island of Tiree is being put up for sale by the Duke of Argyll. When advertised some ten years ago the upset price mentioned was £150,000. At that time the Duke of Argyll's sister, the late Lady Victoria Campbell, lived much in Tiree, and took the deepest interest in the improvement of the condition of the people.
One industry which she established on a permanent footing was that of wood-carving. The Island, which is 30 square miles in area, is very fertile. It has marble of fine quality, and contains quite a series of Scandinavian fens. Its chief attraction to the sportsman is its excellent snipe shooting.

LENSES

REPRESENT the greatest improvement in optical science that has been made in your life-time.
THE OLD STYLE of lens gives a restricted field of vision—you must look through the centre of the lens to see correctly.
WITH THE TORIC LENS, on the contrary, you have correct vision looking through any part of the lens. You move your eyes instead of turning your head from side to side.
TO THE TENNIS PLAYER, trap shooter,
the cricketer, the billiard player, in fact in all fields
of sport, the TORIC LENS means a better score
because of quicker and better vision.
THE TORIC LENS corrects the error of vision better than any other—it comes nearer making the eye natural. Wearers of Toric lenses never go back to the old style.
WE GRIND TORIC LENSES to any prescription from clear or tinted optical glass of first quality. We absolutely guarantee every pair made.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN

that an EXTRAORDINARY GENERAL

MEETING of the above Company will be held at the Hongkong Hotel, Hongkong,

on FRIDAY, the 27th day of January,

1911, at 11.30 o'clock in the forenoon,

when the following Resolutions, which were passed at the EXTRAORDINARY

GENERAL MEETING of the Company held on THURSDAY, the 13th day of January, 1910, will be submitted for Confirmation as Special Resolutions.

(1)—That Article No. 7 of the Articles

of Association of the Company, which now

reads:—

"The Directors shall have power from time to time and at any time to appoint any other persons to be Directors, but

so that the total number of Directors shall not at any time exceed seven and so that no appointment under this clause shall have effect unless two-thirds at least of the Directors concur therein."

be amended by eliminating the word

"seven" in the third line of such Article and by substituting the word "five"

thereof, and also by eliminating the words

"two-thirds at least" in the fourth line of such Article and by substituting the words

"a majority" therefor.

(2)—That Article No. 72 of the Articles

of Association of the Company, which now

reads:—

"The Directors other than the General

Managers shall be paid out of the funds

of the Company by way of remuneration for their services a commission of

"Five per cent. of the net profits of the Company for each year provided that such profits amount to Seven per cent.

of the capital of the Company and such remuneration shall be divided among them in such proportions and manner

as the Directors may determine and in default equally."

be amended by eliminating therefrom

the words "provided that such profits

amount to Seven per cent. of the capital of the Company" in the third and fourth lines thereof and by substituting in lieu thereof the words

"provided that such commission shall not in any one year exceed the sum of

"$5,000."

(3)—That Article No. 82 of the Articles

of Association of the Company, which now

reads:—

"The remuneration of the General

Managers shall be $8,000 per annum to cover office rent and salaries of Secretary and clerks and a commission of

"Five per cent. of the net profits of the Company for each year that such profits amount to 7 per cent. of the Capital of the Company"

be amended by eliminating the words

"that such profits amount to 7 per cent.
of the capital of the Company" contained in the fourth and fifth lines of the Article in question.

(4)—That Article No. 105 of the Articles

of Association of the Company be struck out and that in lieu thereof the two following further Articles be added, namely:—

No. 105.

"Notice of the Declaration of any dividends whether interim or otherwise

shall be given to the holders of registered shares by advertisement in some newspaper provided and no dividend shall bear interest against the Company and a dividend shall not be deemed a specialty."

No. 105A.

"All dividends unclaimed for one year after having been declared may be invested or otherwise made use of by the Directors for the benefit of the Company until claimed and all dividends unclaimed for five years after having been declared may be forfeited by the Directors for the benefit of the Company."

(5)—That the above Resolutions shall be retrospective in their effect and that the alterations in the Articles of Association of the Company thereby effected shall be deemed to have been effected and to have come into force as on and from the 1st day of January, 1911.

SOME WONDERS IN NATURE.

Here are some extracts from an article by that wonderful student of nature John Burroughs. Writing in the Atlantic Monthly, he says:

"I look out of my window and see the tide in its endless quest, racing up and racing down the river; every day, every night, the year through for a thousand, for a million, years it goes on and no one is the wiser, yet the tides have played their part in the history of the globe.

"But Nature's cradle keeps rocking after her child has left it. Only the land benefits from the rain, and yet it rains upon the sea as upon the land. The trees ripen their fruits and their nuts whether there is any creature to feed upon them, or any room to plant them or not. Nature's purpose, (more anthropomorphic) embraces them all, she covers the full circle, she does not need to discriminate and husband her resources as we do.

"THE ANIMAL MIND.
"The animals are so wise in their own way, such a success, without thought, yet so provocative of thought in us! They are rational without reason, and wise without understanding. They communicate without language, and subsist without force. They weave and spin and drill and bore without tools, they traverse mazes without guide or compass, they are cunning without instruction, and prudent without precept. Animal behaviour is much more like the behaviour of natural forces than is that of man: the animal goes along with Nature, borne along by her currents, while the mind of man crosses and confronts Nature, thwarting her, uses her, or turns her back upon herself. During the vast time while the earth was peopled by the lower orders alone, Nature went her way. But when this new animal, man, appeared, in due time Nature began to go his way, to own him as master. Her steam and her currents did his work, her lightning carried his messages, her force became his servants.

MAN'S MASTERY OVER NATURE.

"Man's mastery over Nature has made him the victim of scores of diseases not known to the animals below him. The artificial conditions with which he has surrounded himself, his material comforts, his extra-natural aids and shields, have opened the way to the invasion of his kingdom by hosts of bacterial enemies from whose mischievous activities the lower orders are exempt. He has closed his door against wind and cold, and thereby opened it to a ruthless and invisible horde. Nature endows him with reason, and then challenges it at every turn. She puts a weapon into his hand that she has given to no other animal, and then confronts him with foes such as no other animal knows. He pays for his privileges. He has entered the lists as a free lance, and he must and does take his chances. For the privilege of mastering certain of Nature's activities he pays in a host of natural enemies. For the privilege of fire, he pays in the hazard of fire; for the privilege of steam, he pays in the risk of steam; for knowing how to overcome and use gravity, he pays in many a deadly surrender to gravity. He shakes out his sail to the wind at the risk of the wind's power and fury. So always does the new gift bring new danger and new responsibilities.

FROM EDEN TO PARADISE.

"Man is endowed and blessed above all other creatures, and above all other creatures is he exposed to defeat and death. But the problem is not as broad as it is long. The price paid does not always, or commonly, cut up all the profit. There has been a steady gain. Nature exacts her fee, but the service is more than worth it. Otherwise man would not be here. Unless man had been driven out of Paradise, what would he have come to? The lower orders are still in the Garden of Eden; they know not good from evil; but man's evolution has brought him out of the state of innocence and dependence, and he is supreme in the world."

The London Corporation has been, or the first time within living memory, cleaning the outside of the Mansion House, at a cost of 2400. The numerous pigeons which have lived under the portico for years past were dislodged, for wire netting was put up to prevent their return. They are now taking refuge in the nooks and crevices of a neighbouring bank. The State apartments of the Mansion House, including the Long Parlour, which has not been redecorated for 20 years, were repaired and cleaned at a cost of over 21,000.

THE DECLINE OF TRADE IN SOUTHERN PERSIA.

Official Report from Bushire.

The annual Consular report for the district of Bushire contains a striking review of the insecurity prevailing in Southern Persia. The report begins with the statement that, had as conditions were in 1908-9, they were even worse in 1909-10; and that although the bumper harvests of this summer should lead to some improvement of trade next year, there is no sign of any improvement in the security of the trade-routes.

THE ROUTES.

The road question, it points out, has again become very acute, a marked feature of the situation being that trade between Bushire and Shiraz has been compelled in the last 12 months to follow five different routes:—

It being a well-known fact that a road constitutes a sure source of revenue to the chieftains, large and small, through whose territory it passes, speculation in roads became at one time a serious business pursuit for these gentry, every Khan between here and Shiraz within a radius of 70 miles dreaming of the happy day when, by a regularly paid doukar, or the expenditure of one jump, he might place himself in a position to ensure a steady stream of muleteers setting through his country and perpetually replenishing his empty coffers. Intrigues innumerable took place for the attainment of this object, and competition ran so high that, if caravans were induced for a time to follow a new line of march, the road guards of the disappointed chieftain whose livelihood was affected by the change not infrequently crossed over to the rival track with the deliberate intention of rendering it so thoroughly unsafe for all and sundry that traffic would speedily be diverted again to its former channel. This is interesting enough as a study of the manners and customs of the inhabitants of a lawless hill-country, but appalling from the point of view of the merchant at home patiently striving to maintain important commercial relations with this country. Many of these tribesmen have sunk their all in the purchase of a good rifle, and have no other means but highway robbery of supporting themselves and their families. In consequence, traders are entirely suspended for some months until the end of 1909. Even when resumed, the continual changes of route and the growing scarcity of mule hie the between Bushire and Shiraz the cost of transport rose from £4 to 18 guineas per ton.

COMMERCIAL CLAIMS.

The report states that there is at present practically no means of recovering debts or securing compensation for losses by robbery:—

Of various claims presented since the commencement of 1908 to the Government of Persia or the Central Imperial Government and amounting in the aggregate to some £242, one only has actually been paid, and this again not by the authorities, nor by governors, but by the chief of the tribe committing the crime; and even so the claim was apparently only settled as a personal favour to the Consular officer who preferred it. As regards commercial claims of British firms represented in Bushire on Persian bankrupts or defaulters, the amounts still outstanding total some £19,200, and fresh instances are constantly being recorded of friendly business relations hitherto existing between the two classes of firms being abruptly broken off after lasting without a break for as long a period as seven years, simply because these relations had been on a credit basis, which must inevitably break down when the above causes make it impossible for the Persian merchant to meet his running obligations.

VOLUME OF TRADE.

The total value of imports into Bushire for the year 1909-10 is given as £717,091, as against £793,465 for the preceding year. The exports were £400,892, as against £432,536. There has, therefore, been a total decrease in trade of £108,078. This makes a decrease of £432,050, or nearly 28 per cent. on 1907-8, a normally good trade year. Exports to the United Kingdom lost very little, but imports fell from 48 to 28 per cent. of the total from all sources. India's trade increased 14 per cent. for imports and 3 per cent. for exports.

The Government of the Commonwealth of Australia has engaged the services of Lieut. G. F. Hyde, R.N., for a period of two years to assist in the organization of its naval forces. It is understood that Lieut. Hyde, who has been serving in the Shannon, the flagship of the Second Cruiser Squadron, since March last, will on his arrival in Australia be placed in charge of the Destroyer 'Mollie'. He has had experience in charge of torpedo craft, having commanded a t.b. and the t.b.d. 'Rother'. He was until 1905 a Royal Naval Reserve Officer, and was then transferred to the Royal Navy with his commission dated back to the day in 1902 when he became a lieutenant in the Reserve.

A FOLLOWER OF INFLUENZA.

A attack of influenza is often followed by a persistent cough, which to many proves a great annoyance. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been extensively used and with good success for the relief and cure of this cough. Many cases have been cured after other well known remedies had failed. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

instructions to sent all the records and the findings to Lisbon. It is therefore surmised that the Secret Societies will have sufficient influence to get them buried in the dust of the Lisbon archives and that nothing further will be heard of the matter. It will be a thousand pities if this should be the outcome and we trust that for once rumour may be substantially discredited.

Macao is certainly passing through most distressing times from the point of view of the loyalist and the lover of settled order. A feeling of unrest and uncertainty pervades everything, while the great upheaval which has followed upon the expulsion of the religious and teaching orders from its midst has naturally caused a great deal of misery, anxiety and heart-burning. It was a very short-sighted step to take, in our opinion, and one which even the most revolutionary spirits in the Colony will come to bitterly regret, but the blunder is not irretrievable. We believe that the faith and optimism of the Bishop of Macao, who was recently a visitor in our midst, will be amply justified in the long run, and that brighter days will dawn for the Colony when CAMOENS spent so many years of exile. It will not do, however, to lose heart, neither must the Colony expect when the better days dawn to take up the running precisely at the point where the interruption of last November so seriously dislocated the social, religious and civil order of things. Macao in the days to come must enter upon a wider field of endeavour in every way, striking out new lines of thought and activity and putting much of the old life entirely behind. By the light of to-day's bitter experiences her loyal sons and daughters should be able to go very far along the road which leads to prosperity and honour, provided they have the wit to take advantage of the opportunities which the future will most assuredly unfold for them. The best precept they can take to heart then is Vigilate et orate ut non intretis in tentationem!

HONGKONG, FRIDAY, JANUARY 13, 1911.

THE FUTURE OF MACAO.

From the many letters which are reaching us these days we gather that a most pessimistic spirit now pervades historic Macao. We can well believe that the events of the past few months have all tended to intensify the gloom and increase the depression of spirits of those who have the best interests of the place at heart. As well-wishers of the neighbouring Colony we most deeply regret the misfortunes which have befallen Macao, but we would remind our correspondents that it is "always darkest before the dawn." Macao, like its parent Portugal, has passed through many serious crises in the course of its brilliant history and invariably has weathered the storm. So it will be again. Of course to those who are the victims of the present state of things it is poor comfort to be told to exercise the Spartan but sterling virtue of patience. But that is what is most absolutely necessary to-day. We live in an age of rush and hurry and are therefore too greatly inclined to take short, impatient views of things, forgetting that the great current of humanity really moves calmly and deliberately along the course of its manifest destiny, and that many of the events and happenings which seem to us of major importance in the scheme of things are but the idle froth and iridescent scum which the broad stream of history carries lightly upon its bosom to gradually absorb or else send to oblivion down some quiet backwater, while many of the leading characters of to-day will be piled up as un-honoured derelicts on a lonely shore. A great fear possesses the more substantial people of the Colony lest the result of the recent Enquiry should prove abortive, a rumour being circulated that the Governor has received

The Siang See's last voyage from Swatow to Singapore constitutes what is believed to be a record time for that run, the whole time occupied being four days, ten hours. She brought about 2,000 Chinese coolies as part of her complement.
A Warsaw message says that a third class passenger on the Menden railway was carelessly handling benzine near Grodno. The carriage became ignited, and many were severely burned. Several charred bodies have been recovered.
Considerable significance has been attached to a speech made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in which it was urged that foreign Consuls-General in Ottawa, Canada, should be accorded diplomatic status. It is believed that the Premier's ultimate aim is to secure the right for Canada to conduct diplomatic negotiations with foreign nations direct.
Forty brides, who arrived at Karachi by the troopship Dargala, were married on the next Friday to their respective fiancés who came to meet them from various garrisons in India, says a Madras paper of December 15. Thirty-two were married at Holy Trinity Church in sets of six at a time, two couples at a Roman Catholic Church, two at the Scottish Church, and two at a Methodist Church.
There was introduced in the Legislative Council yesterday a Bill entitled an Ordinance to amend the Defences (Sketching Prevention) Ordinance, 1895, and to control balloonists and others who have special opportunities for obtaining information respecting the defences of the Colony. The Memorandum, attached to the Bill stated: "The development of aviation since the Principal Ordinance was passed has rendered it necessary to introduce legislation with a view to controlling ascents in balloons and aeroplanes in a fortress such as Hongkong, for without such control the purposes of the Ordinance would be nullified. Opportunity has been taken to bring the Ordinance into line in some other details with the law existing in other Eastern British Colonies."

We have been informed that the Rubi left on Wednesday with a record passenger list and a full cargo.
It may not be generally known that the Chinese amateur theatrical party which did so well at the variety entertainment on Wednesday gave their services gratuitously.
With the approach of Chinese New Year there is a great increase in the number of cases which come before Mr Justice Hazland, at the Supreme Court. This morning there were no less than sixty-five on the list.
Captain Katsuka, one of the most respected and trusted of the Inland Sea pilots, has been drowned near Shimomoseki. He had just piloted the P. & O. Oriental through the Straits and put off for the shores in the usual pilot-boat. A snow squall struck them when 50 yards from shore and the boat capsized. The two sailors reached the land safely, but Capt. Katsuka sank very quickly.
On the night of the latest, the Head Office of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha received information from the G. N. S. S. Minnesota by wireless telegraph, the substance of which is as follows: "The steamer is at a position about 700 miles from Yokohama, encountering strong head winds. An accident has occurred to one of her shafts and the propeller has been lost. We are unable to give the exact date of our arrival at Yokohama."
"Seventy years ago one person in every eight was employed on the land," says the Morning Post. "To-day one person in every thirty-two is unemployed on the land." Here are the figures for different years for England and Wales:
Year. Persons employed. Population.
1841.....2,300,000.....16,000,000
1871.....1,424,000.....22,700,000
1891.....1,100,000.....29,000,000
1901.....928,000.....32,500,000
Mr J. A. Sponder, the editor of the Westminster Gazette, says that the young Englishman nowadays needs a touch of the adventurous spirit. "His demand is always for security of tenure, even though the income be modest. He comes to consult you about journalism, or the Bar, or a business career, and you have to tell him that all these professions have their uncertainties and vicissitudes, that there are no pensions to follow, and that no one can guarantee his success. So often he turns away sorrowfully, and takes service for life in some public employment, which will shelter him against all storms." "This is a deplorable accurate diagnosis of the modern young man," says Mr James Douglas in the Star.

Defendant admitted the debt and His Lordship asked him if he wished to pay by instalments.—Defendant—Yes.—His Lordship—How much?—Defendant—$5 a month.—Mr J. H. Gardiner, for plaintiff, said that he was willing to accept a small sum but when another judgment expired which he was at present paying, he wished the instalments to be increased.—His Lordship made an order to pay $20 a month from April 1, when a former judgment would have expired.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Before Mr Justice Hazland at the Supreme Court this morning Mr H. K. Holmes mentioned the case in which the Mutual Stores sued the Victoria Distillery to recover $61.32. Mr Holmes said that defendant had paid something into Court which he was willing to accept but the only question was with regard to costs.
Mr Leo D'Almada e Castro, for defendant.—If it is paid in before Thursday it is in time.
Mr Holmes—I am asking for costs for issuing the writ.
Mr D'Almada—I don't think he is entitled to that.
His Lordship—I don't think you are entitled to anything except what is endorsed on the writ.
Mr D'Almada—I don't think so.
His Lordship—You will be entitled to the costs on the writ.
Mr D'Almada—I submit not. I understand he is also asking for the costs of to-day.
Mr Holmes—Oh no. I gave my friend notice that I would accept the amount yesterday. If the costs had been admitted I would have probably withdrawn the case.
His Lordship—I make no order as to costs.
The King of Saxony had a narrow escape from death on December 7, when he was out hunting chamois at Raibitz. A tremendous avalanche of snow fell in the immediate rear of the royal party, who just reached a projecting ledge and safety in time.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The police have been informed by Mr G. H. Bowker, of Jardines, Matheson and Company, that while the s.s. Fookshing was recently moored at the Kowloon Dock, buoy someone stole 144 balls of opium of the value of $8,400.
The vessel had been in dock, and the stuff was all right when she came out to go to the buoy. Later, the steamer left for Shanghai, and it was on arrival at that port that the loss was discovered.

THE BIG CHINESE ADMINISTRATION CASE.

Decision Reversed By Appeal Court.

Judgment was given this morning by the Chief Justice Sir Francis Pigott and Mr. Justice Hazeldene, sitting as an Appeal Court, in the Supreme Court in the appeal respecting the big Chinese administration action which in original jurisdiction occupied some nine weeks before the Hon. Mr. W. Rees Davies, K.C., when Acting Chief Justice. The appeal was against a verdict in favour of plaintiffs and was supported by Mr. M. W. Shide, K.C., and Mr. C. G. Alabaster, instructed by Mr. D. V. Stevenson, while Sir Henry Berkeley, K.C., and Mr. Eldon Potter represented respondents instructed by Mr. P. W. Goldring.

Before delivering judgment the Chief Justice said that he had received an anonymous petition with regard to that case from a Chinaman. Of course it was very irregular but as there was nothing in it except that he should make an amicable division with regard to both parties he thought it best to pass it down to counsel.

His Lordship did so and proceeding with the judgment said that when judgment was given on that appeal on December 22 respondent's counsel took exception to that part of it which reversed the judgment of the Court below on the question of costs on the ground that their Lordships had no power to make such an order and contended that the order as to costs had been specially made in connection with the Wing Shin Tong issue, that the facts of that case had not been given into, and that therefore this point should be argued before the Court gave judgment on it. They appreciated the force of that contention, more especially as the facts of the Wing Shin Tong issue, and of subordinate issues which related to the Nam Chan firm, not having been unveiled before them, they had supposed that the learned judge had in the exercise of his discretion made an order hostile to defendant on account of the adverse opinion he had formed with regard to his case on the Wing Shin Tong issue and on sentence in the judgment of the Chief Justice expressed that view. When their attention was called to the other part of the judgment it became clear that that view was not entirely accurate and they therefore did not enter formal judgment in order to allow the argument on the appeal, in so far as it related to costs, to proceed. The present judgment was therefore in continuation of the judgment already delivered. After exhaustively reviewing the judgment of the learned judge in the Court below His Lordship said "We think therefore, having given this matter most careful consideration our judgment should reverse the whole of the judgment of the learned judge in the Court below, and that judgment should be entered in this action for defendant with costs."

A DEFENDANT'S AFFAIRS INVOLVED.

At the Supreme Court this morning, Messrs H. Price and Co., Ltd., sued R. H. Whitaker to recover $445.15.

Mr. A. H. G. Jackson appeared for plaintiff and Mr. P. W. Goldring defended. Mr. Goldring said he was prepared to consent to judgment if his Lordship was willing to grant a stay of execution. Defendant's affairs were somewhat involved and he wished a stay of execution for fourteen days as the creditors were trying to arrange a composition.

Mr. Jackson—I don't think my friend is entitled to a stay of execution. No proceedings have been taken against defendant.

His Lordship—A stay of execution will not affect your judgment. If you think the man is going to run away it is another matter.

Mr. Jackson—I don't know what he is going to do, a lot of things might happen in fourteen days.

His Lordship—I think I shall grant a stay of execution and allow you to apply for execution at any time. There is no other judgment.

Mr. Goldring—No.

Judgment was given for plaintiffs with costs, execution to be stayed for fourteen days with liberty to apply at any time.

DR. VIDAL.

(To the Editor of the 'CHINA MAIL').

MACAO, January 12.

Sir,—I shall thank you for kind leave to air an impression that the criminal class in Macao stand in mortal dread of Chief Justice Dr. Marques Vidal. In view of certain rumours which are rife I welcomed a chance meeting with the worthy Judge yesterday when I ventured to broach his reported early departure from Macao. "Quite so," retorted his lordship, "I did in fact entertain some idea of going home by the beginning of this year. But when I handed over the interim Government to H. E. Lieutenant Machado he kindly wired Lisbon, at my request, to know if the Home Government would be pleased to allow me to use my discretion in that respect. The reply came the following day, Marques Vidal pode regressar a Metropole quando quizer. So you see that I may time my return home just as it suits my own sweet fancy and," he added with a knowing smile "I am not particularly keen on humouring certain folk whose good pleasure, it seems, happens to tally with mine."—I am Sir, Yours faithfully,

A CHINESE MAINTENANCE CASE.

Wife Sums her Husband.

At the Magistrate's Court this morning, before Mr. J. R. Wood, a somewhat unusual type of case for Hongkong was called on when a Chinese woman named Leung Tso Shi summoned her husband, Leung Kam Ming, assistant comprador to the Hongkong Hotel, for neglecting to provide reasonable maintenance for her and her infant children whom he is legally liable to maintain. Mr. M. Reader Harris defended.

Mr. Harris said he would like at least a week's adjournment.

Complainant, in answer to his Worship, stated that she had been living at 10, Chi Ping Lane for about a year, and her husband had caused to support her for about the same period. Since that time she had sold her furniture and received loans from her friends, but they were unwilling to contribute any longer, unless the husband also helped. She had been to see the Registrar General and he told her that she could make her husband support her, provided he was really her husband.

His Worship—How many wives does your husband keep?

Complainant—I am the first one, the principal one.

Where has your husband been?—He has been away for five years.

Where?—Mexico.

Did he send you money?—Yes, I have received money from him, but the remittances stopped.

His Worship—What is the cause of the quarrel, Mr. Harris?

Mr. Harris—I don't think there is any serious quarrel. He added that defendant's mother had been in the habit of paying the complainant a sum of $85 per month out of defendant's savings, but the reason why these payments were stopped was that the mother refused to pay them for certain reasons. He (Mr. Harris) was waiting to go into the evidence before deciding on his defence.

His Worship—The parties are husband and wife?

Mr. Harris—Yes, they are husband and wife. She is his only wife.

His Worship—I don't see that the wife has left the husband at all, she is still living in the same house.

Mr. Harris—No, she has not.

His Worship—The whole matter between them seems to be that the remittances have stopped. That is the whole and entire trouble.

Mr. Harris—Yes. My client cannot even see his own children. She won't even let him see them. What he does not intend to do is to go on paying while she keeps the children from him.

His Worship—(to complainant)—How many children have you?

Complainant—Six.

His Worship—Are you willing to go back and live with your husband?

Complainant—If he is willing to support me I am willing to go back at any moment.

Mr. Harris said his client had offered that if the two eldest girls were sent to a convent he would rent a house for his wife.

His Worship said he would give the parties time to come to some agreement.

It seemed to him, however, that most probably the case did not come within the Ordinance and he would be unable to do anything. Still, he would adjourn the case until the 27th inst. at 11 o'clock.

DEFENDANT SUFFERING FROM BEREAVEMENT.

In the case in which Hip Tak Loong sued Shun Loong Chuen, for $82.33, Mr. C. Wilson appeared before Mr. Justice Hazeldene, at the Supreme Court this morning, and asked his Lordship to adjourn the case as defendant was suffering from bereavement. A certificate would be produced from the Tung Wah Hospital. Mr. P. W. Goldring appeared for plaintiff and the case was adjourned for a week.

Y.M.C.A. FAREWELL TO SIR HENRY AND LADY MAY.

A social evening is to take place in the Y.M.C.A. rooms on Monday night at 9 o'clock, to take leave of Sir Henry and Lady May. Ever since the organization of this Association Sir Henry May has been its President, and by his active sympathy has greatly assisted its work. It is another mark of the interest of Sir Henry and Lady May that at this busy time they willingly spare an evening to give the members an opportunity of saying farewell. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Lugard have kindly signified their intention of being present. The arrangement of the programme is in the hands of Mrs. Atkinson, who announces that the following ladies and gentlemen have kindly consented to take part:—Mrs. Badley, Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. Lawder, Miss Barker, Mr. Balloch, Mr. Paine and Capt. Mitchell Taylor. In response to a request from members of the Association, Sir Henry May will give an Irish recitation. The chair will be taken by Mr. P. H. Hickey, vice-president of the Association.

A Sydney telegram says that the Australian, Dave Smith, has defeated Papke, the world's middle-weight champion, on a foul in the tenth round. Smith led throughout. Each weighed 155 pounds.

Never before in the history of Calcutta cricket was there such a large crowd as witnessed the match between Calcutta and Jodhpore at Eden Gardens, on December 24. Calcutta batted first and were all dismissed for 57 in 90 minutes. Sims bowled remarkably well and expiring nine wickets. Jodhpore made 224 for nine wickets. Prince Ranjit did not play for Jodhpore. Sims made 86, A. Reil 68, McLaren 19, Rillick scored seven only.

The outstanding feature was the long partnership between Sims and A. Reil carrying the score from 23 to 108. Sims' innings was not faultless as he gave three easy chances.

The year 1911 will be a notable one in the history of rifle shooting, writes F. W. Walker in the Evening Standard.

The Coronation Bisley of the National Rifle Association will alone make the year exceptional, with the King-Emperor as the new Patron and Chief. Queen Mary, too, will be represented in the prize list with a Territorial Championship Medal, and according to Lord Chelmsford at Coventry, the County Association will be empowered to assist Territorials to attend Bisley. This year, too, which sees the National Rifle Association embarked on considerable changes in the way of figure targets and means to encourage the non-expert shots, will also see the Army and the Special Reserve associations amalgamated; or at least that should be the outcome of recent discussions before 1911 is very old.

A REMEDY FOR CROUP THAT IS ABSOLUTELY SAFE.

CROUP is the most prevalent during the dry cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. REVIEWS.

The Four Grains, by HENRY JAMES. London, Messrs Methuen and Co.

The latest product from the pen of Mr. Henry James takes the form of five short stories. To various folk they will appeal in a different way. Those comprised in that far too large section of the reading public which is always clamouring for something short, crisp and not too brain-macking will likely throw the volume aside before even getting through the first instalment. They will find the extended sentences and the parenthetical digressions of the author not at all to their liking.

On the other hand, for those who revel in character analysis, who love nothing better than to view motives for given conduct from the psychological aspect, and who are not satisfied with being told that this man or that woman placed in certain circumstances acted in a given way, but must be shown the evolution of the will leading up to the commission of the deed, these stories of Mr. James' will have a peculiar fascination. They will take a little careful reading to be appreciated to their full value, but any time and thought given over to their consideration will be well repaid in the ever-present conviction that the writer is bringing us into contact with real, living personalities with quite likely problems to solve. We can recommend the book to the people who think as well as read.

Reason and Belief, by SIR OLIVER LODGE. London, Messrs Methuen and Co.

This book may be taken as a sign that we have left behind us the age of Huxley and his fellow-thinkers and have advanced to a position where the leaders of scientific thought view religion and belief from quite a different standpoint to that which was popular a quarter of a century ago. Sir Oliver Lodge has long been known for the attitude which he assumes towards revealed religion and in the present little book he states the conclusions at which he has arrived in language which is easy of understanding and assimilation. His outlook is very cheering. The human race, in his opinion, stands but at the threshold of its great destiny. It has taken perhaps hundreds of thousands of years to reach its present position, but the possibilities lying before it grow vaster as the scroll of time unfolds. Then as to the question of life after death, Sir Oliver, like Robert Browning, has bent down all his doubts and is now quite assured of immortality. But he does not picture for us a hereafter of supreme quiescence. Far from that. On this earth the very essence of physical life is motion: so it is with the spiritual. The soul after parting with its earthly tenement passes on to spheres of higher influence, to fulfil other portions of the work designed for it in the great scheme of God. It is cheering in these days of cynical scepticism and rampant disbelief to come across a scientist of Sir Oliver Lodge's eminent rank displaying such a robust faith. It cheers the faint-hearted, puts renewed vigour into the faltering, and stimulates the weary into renewed activity in the cause of religious belief. The book is small in compass, but it is very precious in substance.

Fighting Admirals, by JOHN BARNETT. London, Geo. Bell and Sons.

The story of England lies upon the sea, and in the book which Mr. John Barnett has just compiled we have recalled to memory many of the men whose exploits make the fame of the English seamen such a wonderful and stirring thing. He begins with a short account of Edward III and the battle of Sluys, from which we date the modern history of the English navy, and then takes us to Elizabethan times in recalling the marvellous voyages of Raleigh and Richard Hawkins, "the complete seamen." Then we have a very satisfying description of some of the fights which Blake, the great Cromwellian admiral, fought. To Blake we owe the resurrection of English prestige upon the sea, for was he not the man who told the Spaniards that "none but an Englishman shall chastise an Englishman" and he kept his word. Following this sturdy fighter comes Prince Rupert, the most gallant figure in all the Civil War. After Rupert had won enduring fame as a leader of cavalry he took to the sea and many were the fights he and Prince Maurice fought in the Mediterranean and the West Indies until the restoration of Charles brought him back to England, one of the most noble and austere figures in the most illustrious court of Europe. Sir Christopher Mynes, or Cloudesley Shovel and gallant rough-spoken old Bonhom, each receive a chapter and we are given capital pen portraits of these brave men, enabling us to estimate their characters and their deeds, their triumphs and their failures with a fair amount of certainty that justice has been done to them. The Siege of Lundy and the breaking of the famous boom by Locke is well told, and so also are the three last fights of Rodney. A pathetic chapter is that devoted to recounting the part which the fine old three-decker Impregnable played in reducing the Bay of Algiers to submission, and turning that hideous haunt of slavery and piracy into a place where Christians could again hold up their heads. Then we have a short account of the battle of Navarino and a sympathetic appreciation of Lord Cochrane in the two closing chapters.

It is a capital book and one to be placed in the hands of every Englishman who loves his country. We can hardly believe that any lad exists who would not feel his blood glow and his pulses speed up to a higher rate in reading the tales of fighting Admirals which Mr. Barnett relates with so much spirit. It is well that these deeds should be told; it is better that such a writer as Mr. Barnett should devote his great talents to the task.

PROFESSOR GROSSI THE MARVEL

Coming to Hongkong.

Hongkong is to be visited by the world's greatest telepathist, Prof. Grossi, assisted by Mlle. Rene, a celebrity of the 20th century. These people have recently completed an engagement of eighty consecutive nights at the Hippodrome, London; and are now arriving from Manila. They are due here on Monday next by the Zafiro and will show on the following Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the City Hall.

While in Manila before a house of 2,700 people Prof. Grossi exposed all Nikola's tricks, including the mysterious trunk, milkmen and handkerchiefs, and showed the audience how they were done. He will do the same here, this being a portion of the first part of the programme. The second part is taken up by Prof. Grossi and Mlle. Rene's scientific work.

This is how Dagone in the "Referee" described a performance given at the Savoy Hotel: "During the Professor's absence I assisted in a mock tragedy. The 'Daily Mail' young man stabbed me with a hotel knife; parolined my watch and chain, hid the 'corpse' behind a curtain, and placed the 'weapon' and 'swag' in the pockets of members of the audience. The Professor, securely blindfolded, was then brought back and a third newspaper man concentrated his thoughts on the incidents of the 'tragedy.' Without a word being spoken or any personal contact ensuing between thought-reader and amateur medium the Professor discovered everything that had been done, and finally brought me to life and returned me my 'clock' and chain. It was distinctly clever work on the Professor's part, and I must confess that I could see no explanation but that of 'auto-suggestion' to account for its success. Directly after the seance Professor Grossi was engaged to present his show in the Hippodrome twice daily."

DENNIS CRANEY AT THE EMPIRE.

For real good fun and hearty laughter no better place could be found than the Empire Cinema where Dennis Craney, the great Yorkshire comedian, made his debut on Thursday night.

Dennis Craney is an artist of merit and is just as pleasing in his step dancing as in his comic songs. Encores were demanded and responded to and altogether he created a most favourable impression, an impression that will go a long way in making his season in Hongkong a most successful one.
